Rovner Products

Rovner Products was founded in 1974. Phil Rovner, owner and founder of the company, has Extensive experience in both mechanical engineering and electronics and has spent his entire lifetime engaged in problem-solving and innovative design for numerous major corporations. He is also a professional musician with a strong education in both music theory and in a wide range of musical instruments, who eventually gravitated toward woodwinds as his instruments of choice. He has performed in big bands, nightclubs, theatres, and in the 29th division military band and continues to be an active participant in the music scene. The extraordinary success of his initial ligature design pushed Phil to continue his research and experimentation until his company was able to offer not just one, but a full range of ligatures, each with its unique characteristics and each creating its own distinct sound. He has also developed a small line of superb saxophone and clarinet mouthpieces and continues to explore new materials and new designs which he expects to unveil in 2010. His goal is to provide every style of woodwind player with powerful, elegant, technically superb accessories that will provide accurate intonation and increased ease of play.

Rovner Products are now distributed worldwide and are used by all kinds of woodwind players, from beginning musicians to la crème del la crème of professionals. Although there have been many imitators over the years, the name "Rovner" is well-established and deeply respected, and musicians continue to look to Rovner Products for quality and innovation. The line of products continues to grow in response to Phil's insatiable appetite for excellence. Rovner ligatures have been, and will continue to be, the ligature of choice for discerning musicians, providing consistent and incomparable performance for generations of players. A wonderful world of extreme performance awaits you. You'll be amazed!

All of Rovner Products can be purchased from your local Music Shop.
